On 17 September 700 Chinese Communist "superiors" (Kan Pu 字 部 ) from various factories in Dairen departed by ship for Tunghua (125-57, 41-43) via Antung (124-23, 40-09). On 20 September 1,000 administrative "superiors" departed from Dairen for Antung and other towns in eastern Liaoning Province. During early October 2,000 Japanese technicians, detained by Chinese Communists in Dairen, were sent to eastern Liaoning. At the same time persons from Dairen, Port Arthur and Chinchou (121-43, 39-07) were transported to Pulantien (121-57, 39-24) for shipment northward.

There were a total of 15,000 persons, 5,000 from each city. Others arrived by sailing vessels at Dairen, Hsiaokushan [121-48, 39-02] and Chinchou from Shantung for shipment northward. Of these, there were 30,000.

It is planned to establish three industrial districts in the Tunghua area.

- Beginning on. 25 September Chinese Communist troops removed all machinery from the textile mills in Wafangtien (122-01, 39-38) and shipped it to Tunghua. During early October all machinery from privately-owned oil plants and paper mills in Kaiping (122-22, 40-24) was moved to Pulantien for shipment to Tunghua. Many factories in Dairen have stopped production to prepare for removal to eastern Liaoning.
- At the end of September the Chinese Communists began to run a special train (? north) from Pulantien daily. It carries military food supplies and munitions. All sleepers on the railroad between Taipingshan (122-25, 40-33) and Luchiatun (122-10, 40-14) have been removed and transported to Pulantien.
- On 2 October Chinese Communist troops removed the telegraph wires between Kaiping and Taipingshan and transported them to Pulantien.
